3 Hempstead Men Injured

Patmos Workers Hurt in Auto Crash Tuesday Night

TEXARKANA — Three oil field workers were injured, one of them seriously, early Tuesday night when the automobile in which they were en route to Patmos, Ark., crashed head-on with a heavy truck 10 miles north of Texarkana on Highway 87 near Homan.

Wilton Powell, 21, who with his brother, Oscar, 31, was brought to Michael Meninger hospital in an East ambulance, suffered a deep scalp wound and probably a concussion.

Oscar Powell, driver of the car, was treated for lacerations on his left hand, left leg and face.

A third member in the Powell automobile was F. A. Barham, 38, recently of Ville Platte, La., and had just moved to Hempstead county. He is a brother-in-law of the Powell brothers.

Barham refused to come to the hospital in an ambulance sent to the wreck scene. Later Guy Potts, who chanced to be passing the spot, picked the man up as he was trying to

Clow Farmers Ask Protection

Hunters Endanger Farmers Working in Fields

There is a great demand for livestock doing the present crisis, and the farmers of the Clow community are making ready for the same. Since there is such a demand the farmers are first going in by making out their individual pledge cards and nine tenths of the farmers are making plans to double their total production from last years returns.

These goals can only be accomplished through cooperation on the part of all concerned. Since the hunting season has begun, hunters have flocked in this community taking the liberty to hunt where ever they choose. This on the other hand has become dangerous to the extent that farmers are afraid to go about their farms.

More than that the danger of getting their live stock injured by getting struck with shots. Fellow citizens, we have no material to go to ruin in a time like this and we the following farmers: Lee Wooten, Sam Bell, Robert Sampson, Elza Lewis, M. G. Sanders, J. L. Goodwin, and Robert Ervin, are asking all concerned to cooperate with us to the fullest extent, to help maintain what we have.

Red Offensive Presses Nazis

Axis Offensive in Libyan Brought to Standstill

By the Associated Press Russian armies pressing a great winter offensive lunged Wednesday on the threshold on 250 miles of German defenses northwest and southwest of Moscow.

Dispatches reported the capture of 79 more towns and indicated Adolf Hitler's retreating invaders were falling back upon a double defense road system from Velikieluki to Bryansk. Velikieluki is only 80 miles from the Latvian frontier.

On the North African front British headquarters said General Rommel's Axis armies which shored the British back 150 miles in three days had been stopped for two days and apparently had come to an impasse in their counter drive.

Axis versions of the struggle differed. While Hitler's command merely noted reconnaissance activity on the sides, Mussolini's command said the British continued to retreat eastward.

On the Crimea front a German bulletin said Russian reinforcements, landed on the south coast of the Black Sea Peninsula, had been beaten off and almost wiped out in fighting there.

Farm Families Plan Gardens

Many Purchase Seed for Early Spring Planting

Home gardens larger and more productive than they've grown before are planned in 1942 by the F. S. A. farm families in Hempstead county working with the Farm Security Administration in the Food for Freedom drive. Laura H. Hodnett, Hempstead County FSA home management supervisor, said.

"Many FSA families have already farm and home plans for 1942 in line with production goals set forth last fall by Secretary Wickard," Mrs. Hodnett said. "At community meetings held throughout the county last week, however, these plans were enlarged to meet the increased demand for essential foods."

Each family will endeavor to raise a continuous supply of fresh food and a surplus to be canned or dried, Mrs. Hodnett explained.

"Homemakers are being urged to keep their pressure cookers and other equipment in good condition because of difficulty in replacing broken parts. Because glass, rubber, and metals are needed in the manufacture of war materials, FSA homemakers will be urged to dry all foods that can be preserved by that method."

With the planting season for spring gardens almost here, FSA families are now ordering garden seed. Many are purchasing unit packages of 24 to 26 varieties through the Hempstead County Purchasing and Marketing Association.

Exotic Perfumes From the U. S. A.

AP Feature Service
Perfumes, the rare exotic ones and the kind you wear to the parties you don't expect to meet anyone exciting at, are early casualties in the war.
The essential oils that used to flow from far off romantic countries to America's perfume jars now come from places and plants you see every day.

Here is what some are coming from:
New Hampshire: thyme, sweet majoran, sweet basil, pyrethrum, rue, hyssop, dill, valerian, peppermint and lavender.

Kentucky and Ohio: caraway, anise, fennel, angelica, coriander.
Florida: lemon grass; Maine: bal-sain-needle oil; Florida and California: citrus fruits; Dominican Republic: lemon grass, ylangylang, and citronella grass.

These things used to come from such places as the British East India, Madagascar, Reunion I., Philippines, Ceylon, Dutch East Indies, France, Italy, southern Russia, England, Hungary, Salvador, Tyrol, Siberia, Switz-

Answering the Mail Orders

The U. S. Fighting Goal for 1942 Easy to Remember

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — Answering the mail orders C. B. South Bend, Ind.—I don't know that voluntary enlistments can be considered an index to a state's patriotism. There are many factors involved to drive voluntary enlistments up in some areas and hold them down in others. However, here are the facts: On a basis of population, North Carolina, Oregon and Wyoming, in that order, had the highest percentages of voluntary enlistments when the last tally was made around the first of the year. Numerically, New York, Pennsylvania and Texas had the greatest number of enlistments.

A. B. A. Sedalia, Mo. — The fighting goal of 1942 is really pretty easy to remember: An army of around 3-600,000; 60,000 planes; 45,000 tanks; 20-000 anti-aircraft guns; and more than 8,000,000 tons of shipping.
L. G., Fresno, Calif. — You can NOT buy 1942 model cars, regardless of mileage. They are not considered

J. R., Macomb, Ill. — The U. S.
Marine Corps is the smallest branch of our fighting forces. Marine officers ordinarily are named from the ranks or from graduates of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. In the latter instance, the men apply for assignment to the Marine Corps.

K. R., Kansas City, Kan. — The Office of Civilian Defense already has instructions out to its field staff for taking care of the hard-of-hearing during air raids. However, it is probable that many localities have not yet had time to get the details to the public. Except for taking a census of the deaf or hard-of-hearing and making arrangements through local wardens for each specific case, these instructions are mostly for the afflicted themselves.

Persons who cannot hear door and telephone bells should install lights as substitutes.
Pass keys should be left with neighbor.

Lowdown on the New Production Setup

WASHINGTON — Donald M. Nelson, new boss and chairman of WPB —the War Production Board which should not in any sense be confused with WPA—has shown his hand and it looks good.

Revealing his organization and his reorganization of the now dead OPM Nelson also reveals enough of his personal ideas and his approach to the job of supplying the country for war to forecast some of the trends you may expect to see coming out of his Washington office.

In making his blueprint for organizing war production, Nelson put in nearly a full week of 18-hour days.
He consulted a number of the men he has named to top posts in the new WPB set-up and his "personal brain-trusters," Sid Weinberg, Cliff Hill and Eddie Locke, who become now his principal assistants. The plan envolved is Nelson's own doing.
Summarizing the trends that this Nelson plan reveals, the highlights may be presented like this:

"There aren't any supermen. I'm not one," says Nelson candidly.

"No one can foresee what the relations of the War Production Board should be to the Army and Navy. The present set-up is therefore an interim organization." That means further reorganization is coming.

"I'm not being melodramatic. Revolutionary changes in organization only bring delay," Nelson declares.

This accounts for the fact that there aren't so many new names and faces in the WPB organization. In spite of this "go slow" attitude, Nelson kicked the old OPM in the head, swallowed the old priorities organization in the new Division of Industry Operations under the former associate priorities director J. S. Knowlson, and let the production division take over the job of sub-contracting and all the work of the contract distribution service which was organized to aid small business but didn't do the job because it didn't have the authority to aid small business.

Field Men First

Look for a vast expansion of the new WPB field service. The idea is not to try to settle everything in Washington, but to let problems be settled in the field by WPB men on the job and with firsthand knowledge of their problems.

Keep an eye on the work of J. S.
Knowlson, head of the new DIO —Division of Industry Operations—which is to become increasingly important in getting as much production as quickly as possible. Knowlson is a Cornell engineer whose first experience was with General Electric.

He comes to Washington from Chicago, where he was president and board chairman of Stewart-Warner.
Nelson foresees no great issue on the problem of giving labor a voice in management. Each of his 50 or 60 industry committees will be split into separate advisory committees from labor and management. The two can meet separately or be called together.

"I assume that both industry and labor are just as much interested as I am in getting production," says Nelson. This bespeaks an attitude of trust and confidence, not suspicion of every one's motives. Nelson wants all the ideas he can get from these committees, but won't question whether the ideas come from labor or management.

Watch Batt
William L. Batt, former head of the SCK industries, has two jobs under the new WPB organization, but don't make too much of that. As chairman of the requirements committee, Batt will meet with representatives of Economic Warfare Board, Lease-Lend, Civilian Supply, Maritime Commission, Army and Navy. From these will be obtained the overall requirements. As head of the materials division, Batt's job will be to see that these materials are obtained.

Major allocations of materials will be made for economic warfare, lease-lend, civilian use, shipbuilding and the armed services. Administrators of each of these divisions will have the job of allocating or rationing its share of every material within its own field. Take rubber as an example.
Economic Warfare Board will decide how much of its share goes into tires for civilian use in South America; Civilian Supply will decide how much of its share goes for busses or private owners. Lease-Lend will decide how much of its share goes to tank treads for Britain or landing wheel tires for the Dutch East Indies airforce, and so on.

Priorities procedure will probably have to be overhauled again. The changes in method resulting from the change in attitude toward the priorities problem. The priorities problem is different now from what it was when Nelson became priorities director last fall. And it will change again.

Ready-Made Reason for All Accidents

KETCHIKAN, Alaska — (AP)—Superstitious Ketchikan drivers keep a careful lookout for black cats and rub-bitts' feet. Territorial car licenses assigned here begin with the number 1301 and go up through the 1300's. A frequent plea as licenses were bought was: "Haven't you some other number you can give me?"

W. N., Mangum, Okla. — Both air-mail and parcel post sent to or from soldiers stationed outside the United States take the domestic rate. In the case of parcel post, the zone rate is the same as it would be to the port from which the parcels are transhipped. In most instances, this is either New York or San Francisco.

Film Factories Turn to More Rehashes

HOLLYWOOD — Just as it's a good idea to keep audiences guessing about the out-comes of a screen story, so may it be smart showmanship to begin fooling them as soon as they get settled in their seats.

At any rate, Hollywood's doing it.
The last time you were attracted to a theater by some well-known and memory-reviving title, chances are you found the movie not only unlike the original book or play but greatly changed from the previous screen version. Metro's recent "Chocolate Soldier," for instance, actually contained the story of "The Guardsman," and the melange really should have been called "Her Chocolate Guardsman."

On the other hand, an awful lot of screen "originals" are new only in their titles. Season after season, the Warner lot has remade the same gangster plots, 20th-Fox has filmed essentially the same musicals, and Universal has dished up the same horror yarns. Once a year for the duration of my memory, Paramount has been reviving "The Charm School" under various guises and usually with the word "college" in the titles.

Money makers Studios may blush a bit when caught hanging new tags on old mor-chandise, but they have a convincing defense for the remaking at least once each decade of favorite yarns bearing many new twists but familiar titles. Scarcely anybody resents the changes, and millions of fans must enjoy them, because most such pictures make a lot of money. Fuel is changes are necessary to the success of remakes.

Some of these observations have come from Producer-Director Ralph Murphy, who's interested because he's just starting a program from remakes. He first made a survey of the kinds of pictures which were most popular during World War I, and from this he decided to do "Mrs.
Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," "The Virginian," and "Merton of the Movies."

Each has been filmed twice before.
The Wiggs yarn veered away from the book in the old stage adaptation and has been further altered ever since. The book had Mr. Wiggs dead of alcoholism, but in subsequent version he has been coming home just in time to pay off the mortgage.

The man who's sparking Miss Hezy will be Hugh Herbert. Answering a matrimonial ad, he loses his glasses and spends the next few reels trying to get a good look at the lady.
Recovering the glasses just before the wedding, he looks—and lams.
"The Virginian" is one of the very few favorites which won't need much revision, Murphy says. The dialog will be polished, though, and this production will be a costly one in Technicolor.

Modern Merton Written in silent days, "Merton of the Movies" naturally is in for some extensive modernization, but fans will be surprised to find it's a musical. A young singing star is visiting her home for the world premiere of her new picture. Merton Gill, who was her leading man in high school plays, is given a part in the festivities, and press agents accompanying the star see him as a natural for some true-young-love and heart-throb stories, so they arrange to take him back to Hollywood.

Here, after a phony screen test and a walk-on bit in a picture, Merton is given the customary brush-off. He finally attains real stardom, but not by any of the devices in the original story.

Wanta Catch Fish? Just Bark Loudly

DOUGLAS, Ariz.—(AP)—Did you ever hear the one about the dog chasing a fish out of the water and onto the bank? Louis P. Laux, city water plant pumpman, said he went to the edge of the reservoir to see what a dog was barking about. On the bank was a 15-pound, 32-inch carp. Laux surmised that the dog surprised the fish as it was feeding at the water's edge.

The big fish apparently flopped onto the bank in its efforts to get away.

STAMP NEWS

DEFENSE UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

MANY patriotic companies and organizations are using meter stamps and slogans to further the national defense effort. The slogan above is one of several appearing on covers.

Vichy reports astronomical prices being paid for two sets of philatelic wartime rarities. They are French stamps surcharged by the German army when it occupied Dunkirk and British stamps obliterated by French postoffices on Channel Island mail which was sent clandestinely to the French mainland.

The stamps, face value of 50-centimes, are quoted now at 2500 francs. In some cases, depending upon horizontal or vertical surcharges, market value has rocketed to 4000 francs. Blocks of four with dated corners are being sold for 14,000 francs.

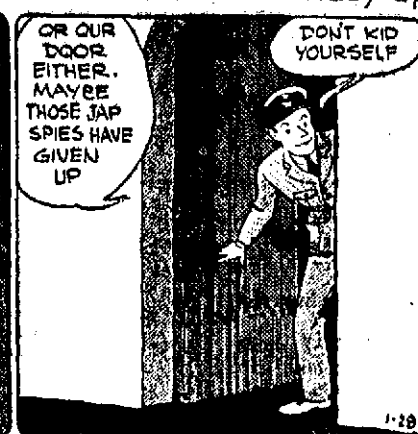

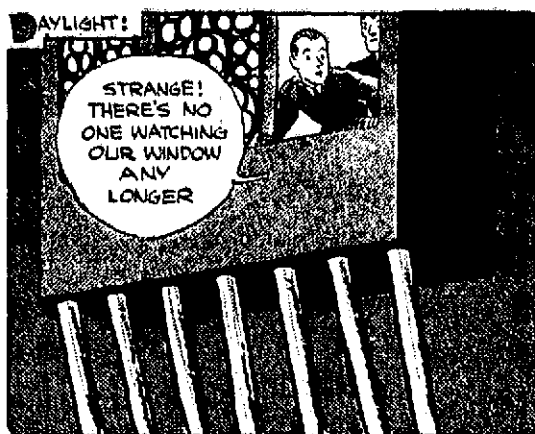

Recent arrivals from Nicaragua include stamps commemorating the 25th anniversary of the death of Ruben Dario, poet. Under his portrait the stamp is inscribed "Ruben Dario XXV Anniversary."

There is a 10-centavos red for postage use, and 20c pale violet, 35c green, 40c orange and 60c light blue for air mail use

Take Boarder For Duration

47,000 New Government Workers in Washington

By JACK STINNETT
WASHINGTON — The capital in wartime:

They are taking a page from the big convention cities here and asking that every house-owner with an extra room take a boarder "for the duration."

It's estimated that 47,000 new government workers have rolled into Washington in the last year. Figure out for yourself what that means to a city that already was population-jammed before the big defense wave started.

If you are down around the waterfront these days and you are lucky, you might catch a glimpse of one of the trimmest yachts afloat and a graceful four-masted bark. It doesn't mean, however, that the multi-millionaires are visiting Washington. It's just that the U. S. has come into possession of two more luxury boats.

The yacht is the Nenemoshia, a floating palace, which Mrs. Jessie Ball DuPont has turned over to the Maritime Commission. It will be converted into a training ship for maritime cadets.

The clipper is one-time Ambassador to Russia Joseph E. Davies' "Sea Cloud." The navy has leased it for $1 a year for use in the coastal patrol. The "Sea Cloud" is known on the seven seas as one of the most beautiful crafts afloat. There is an ironic twist about the "Sea Cloud's" going to war. Just ten years ago it slipped down the ways at Kiel Garden, Germany.

Out of all the statistical sky-rocketing in Washington in the last year, the two smallest increases were noted in bank loans and life insurance sales. As one wit put it, the first shows that nobody's poor, and the second that nobody cares.

Treasury Secretary Morgenthau gave his press conference an explanation the other day, and he also may have given himself a nickname. For weeks, the boys have been trying to get something out of the secretary on the new tax program. When the old questions started popping again, Mr. Morgenthau asked: "How many of you boys saw 'Dumbo'?"

A number of the press corps signified that they had. "Then," said the secretary, "maybe you know Dumbo couldn't talk."

Undoubtedly what inspired Mr. Morgenthau's comment was that he had just come from a session with Walt Disney, who created "Dumbo." There are several are Hollywood directors and producers in Washington these days, so brace yourself for some propaganda films from some of the best talent the movies have to offer. Just what Disney is doing at the Treasury is strictly hush-hush, but you can almost bet that it has to do with an animated movie on defense bonds and stamps.

The appearance of Prime Minister

Getting the Bad News

Churchill at the White House was the signal for the most intensive guarding that ever has been done around there. The details are a closely guarded military secret and right-ly so.

The Senate office building has taken on a definitely wartime air. Signs in the halls point huge arrows to the "Air raid shelter area" and at several convenient places there are great boxes of sand with long-handled shovels and hoses for use against incendiary bombs. The capital never has forgotten that it was burned out once in the War of 1812.

You can't get a word out of the National Gallery (Mellon Museum) of Art, the Corcoran Gallery, the Library of Congress, the Smithsonian, or any other museums here about what precautions they have taken to guard their invaluable art treasures and relics, but even an occasional visitor will notice that many of the most highly valued paintings, sculptures and historical exhibits have disappeared.

CHAPTER XXI

JUDDY didn't take the trouble between Maurie and Bixie Groff as seriously as I did. Much goading like that might put Maurie on Doc after all, but Juddy only joshed Doc about it.

"Why don't you borrow Dolf for a police dog?" she said. Doc didn't even answer her. He said, "Do you think I should apologize to Sears, Mom?"

"What for?" I said. "You didn't do anything to him."

"Are you afraid?" Juddy said. "Of course I'm afraid. I'm not a fool. I have no ambition to be shot."

I guess Juddy had never heard that tone out of him before. She had it coming to her all right. She colored up.

Angel showed up, looking like something the Salvation Army had salvaged. No, he wasn't looking for Juddy. He wanted a private talk with me. We went down to the river. It was private enough there because an airplane had just gone over, scaring Old Swoby into the stockade, and Dolf was covering his retreat.

"What's it all about, Big Boy?" "Money. Got any to spare?"

"No. How much?" "Seven hundred dollars," he said like a dying swan.

I can add three to four. "The bet," I said. "Juddy's bet."

"It wasn't my fault." "It never is."

"When she passed me the ice pitcher, I went on the razz."

"Yeah?" I said. "Was it dice, draw, or dominoes?"

He let out a groan. "What does it matter now? The game was crooked. Mom, I could pay you back sure in two months."

"I haven't got any seven hundred dollars," I said.

He put his head between his big hands. "How'll I ever square it with Juddy?" he moaned. Just then Loren Oliver came out of the stockade with his hand on Old Swoby's shoulder. Angel looked over at him and dropped his voice. "You could get it from him, Mom," he said.

"Yes," I said. "But he'd have

Everything's Free at Hobo Paradise

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. —(P)— This town is a mighty important spot on the map for gentlemen of the road. Hoboes no longer will have to ask for a handout in Edwarsville—coffee and food will be theirs for the taking. The community fund, police and fire departments and city officials have opened a free food center for hoboes, and beds are furnished at the police station for "guests" who wish to remain overnight.

There'll be less nickel in the new nickels, but that won't do any good if they still fit the juke-boxes. The sheepskin most desired today by college undergraduates is the kind that lines an aviator's helmet.

Old Gray Mare Comes Back

'Where Can I Get a Horse' Is Familiar Cry

AP Feature Service

OMAHA—The Old Gray Mare she ain't what she used to be.

She's on the way back to popularity and those city slickers who once jeeringly asked "Will the horse ever replace the automobile as an institution?" are now asking "Where can I get a horse?"

The South Omaha auction rings are enjoying a priorities boom that is running a close second to the 1941 automobile ubli market. Dealers are thronging the marts from as far away as New England and they're buying horses for transportation purposes as well as farm and work horses.

Five hundred animals—350 horses and 150 mules—were knocked down in a one-day sale recently that had the horse auctioneers going through their double-talk routine at a faster clip than nine tobacco auctioneers.

Unlike the tobacco sales, the modern David Harums get a chance to see the horses perform before they put up their money. They are hitched to a wagon and given trial runs with expert observers certifying on their tags whether the animals are O.K. or "work green," "little green," "windy," "little windy" or are "bad workers."

The dealers are required to give an honest description of the animal's bad as well as good features and if he doesn't report all the blemishes, the buyer is entitled to:

1. "Bush" him a bit (force the price down).

2. Reject the horse entirely. It is then reoffered at the end of the sale with other rejects.

Market experts do not anticipate a big demand for animals for city delivery purposes, to replace trucks and worn-out fires. The old time drays and delivery wagons aren't made any more, they point out, and a dray that once cost $300 might have to be custom built today at a prohibitive cost of about $1,200.

Red Man Goes Modern

FORT LEWIS, Wash. —(P)— Sioux Indian soldiers of Company B, 168d Infantry of the 41st Division, got tired of many a back-breaking hour over a washtub. They needed something to take the place of squaw-work. So they purchased a washing machine with money they saved from rebates on canteen book purchases.

Most of the raw material for synthetic rubber will be supplied by the petroleum industry.

The principal Scottish local court is the Sheriff Court and the judge is called the Sheriff Substitute.

Maybe He Labors in the Mint

HARGERSTOWN, Md. (P)— A plant official approached a laborer during a defense stamp drive but the laborer turned a cold shoulder to requests that he buy a stamp.

"But I'll take a bond," the workman added.

"What denomination?" he was asked.

"A $5,000 one will be about right," he replied. He got it.

Barbs

Giving somebody a piece of your mind seldom contributes to peace of mind for either.

South African asbestos has been placed on the priority lists. Hope they're planning to make it hot for a certain party.
